Interest Rate Movement :

The price of NID will be affected by the movement of interest rate during the tenure of the instruments until maturity. The mark-to-market prices during this period might fluctuate and you may need to record the market value in your financial statements periodically.

If you liquidate or redeem your investment in NID before the maturity period, you may have the opportunity to crystallize the unrealized gain on the principal amount invested if the interest rate were to move in your favour and there is the likelihood the principal amount invested will also deteriorate if the movement of the interest rate is not in your favour at the time of liquidation or redemption.
